

Cross cultural models of family as a system

From: Fatemi, Sayyed Mohsen <sfatemi@fas.harvard.edu>

Dear Louise,

I was wondering if you can ask people in the group they know of any good article to discuss different models of development for family as a system? I am especially interested in an intercultural or a multicultural approach that can discuss what different cultures or nations have used to consider family development or family enrichment?

Great thanks to you!

Mohsen

Dear Mohsen,

I suggest that you look at the work of the distinguished Turkish researcher into families, Cigdem Kagitcibasi. Attached is an introduction to her approach. This piece is taken from the open access series of Online Readings in Psychology and Culture, <http://scholarworks.gvsu.edu/orpc/> . If you look at that website, there are around 100 interesting articles available, including several that are focused on families from a cultural perspective.
